NAME OF AL MARTIN BROUGHT INTO PROBE

Banker Testifies That He Wanted to Arrange for Sporting Friends to Cash Drafts

Actual bribery of police officers to permit continuation of gaming, and the boasts of game operators that they had protection, were charged Wednesday night in the testimony of witnesses before the councilmanic probing committee.

mony was brought out by M. B. Jarman, a confessed habitue of the resort at 49½ Central avenue. He declared that on one occasion Floyd Woodmont took two girls to the bath.

The officer he suspected of having accepted Woodward's bribe on the night in question was described by Jarman as a man of medium height, with gray hair and slightly stoop-shouldered. He did not offer the policeman's name.

Councilman Al Martin's name was for the first time brought directly into the investigation when Frank

[illegible]

Poster, a lawyer, took the stand and calmly admitted persistent gambling in the Woodward raid and on cross examination gave a detailed account of every time he had fallen into the clutches of the law on account of his mania for cards and dice. His testimony was particularly strong, however, when he declared that on the night of the Shumate raid he had informed detectives that the real men running the game were Floyd Woodward and J. C. McBride and that the detectives could catch them by returning to the gambling house. He, himself, returned and waited for the detectives. Woodward and McBride were there but the detectives failed to put in an appearance.

Meeting Begins. When Chairman Sims called the committee to order, he announced that there would be no sessions next week on account of grand opera. Mr. Black announced that Mr. Boykin's health was such that he had planned to take a vacation, beginning May 1 and lasting for ten days, and asked that other arrangements be made. Mr. Boykin then declared that it was absolutely obligatory for him to get away at that time. Mr. Black then suggested that no recess be announced at this time, giving both sides opportunity to confer and decide on the best thing for Atlanta. This suggestion was adopted.

County Policeman Head was the first witness called. He testified that he accompanied Solicitor Boykin on the Central avenue raid. He identified paraphernalia seized at this time. This included the railing for the dice table, cards, dice, card grimmer, card rounder, various wildcat stocks, one of a company advertised as a $200,000 corporation, stock exchange order blanks, a six-eight-field layout, an overcoat made by Mahoney and Maney with Floyd Woodward's name there in, morphine bottles and a hyperdermic needle.

In exhibiting the paraphernalia, Mr. Black, showing the table rails remarked, "The use of these is obvious to you gentlemen. They keep the dice from rolling on the floor."

Again while showing stock certificates he exhibited one signed "S. S. Samuels, cashier." However, said Mr. Black, "I want to assure you that this isn't Sig Samuels, who is involved."

"Is the learned gentleman qualified as an expert?" asked Mr. Clay.

And there was a laugh.

Judge Hines: "Mr. Officer, did you examine the pockets of this overcoat?"

Witness: "I found some letters in them, but didn't read them."

Called to Boykin's Office.

Judge Hines: "What became of them?"

Witness: "I put them together on a witness in the gambling room and they were carried to Mr. Boykin's office."

Judge Hines: "Who read them?"

Witness: "Mr. Boykin and Mr. Stevens, I presume."

Judge Hines: "Where are they now?"

Witness: "With this bunch of stuff, I guess."

Mr. Black: "Judge Hines, if you'll tell us who the letters were addressed to or what they contained we will try to produce them. Mr. Boykin states that he knows nothing of their existence."

Judge Hines: "How many men were in the place when you raided it?"

Witness: "A pretty good bunch. I didn't learn their names. We put four of them in jail."

Judge Hines: "Who ordered the release of the others?"

Witness: "No one ordered their release. Mr. Boykin simply told us to look up four of them."

Bank Cashier Called.

Following Witness Head to the stand, was Frank M. Berry, assistant cashier of the Fourth National bank, of Atlanta, who said that there was an account in that bank with Al Martin's name.

Mr. Black: "Did you at one time have a conversation with Mr. Al Martin?"

Witness: "Yes, he told me at one time that he'd like to have a talk with me at home some night."

Mr. Black: "Did he ever come to your house?"

Witness: "No."

Mr. Black: "What did Mr. Martin say he wanted to talk to you about when you met him a little later on the street?"

Witness: "I met Mr. Martin a few days later and he told me he wanted to talk privately with me. I told him that there was a good time to have the talk. He said he wanted me to handle some collections for him."

"He said there were some 'sporting men' in town," said the witness, "who had some checks and drafts they wanted collected. He said he wanted to get the bank to handle these and intimated there was something in it for the bank and for him."

The witness would not state definitely what commission Mr. Martin offered the bank and said he would himself receive from the transactions.

Mr. Black: "What did you tell Mr. Martin?"

Witness: "I advised him very forcibly against acting in any wise as agent for the 'sporting' men and told him the Fourth National bank would not handle the collections."

Requested Confidence.

Mr. Black developed the fact that Mr. Martin had requested the conversation kept in strict confidence. Mr. Berry hesitated about testifying.

"Do I have to tell this?" he asked before relating the details of his conversation with Martin.

"Yes," replied Mr. Black, "you have been subpoenaed and must testify. Counsel for the detectives offered no cross-examination."

C. B. Whitten, a policeman, was called. It developed that he had declared that he knew something on Lieutenant Shaw, which he wouldn't tell Chief Beavers. He was examined by Chief Beavers but it developed that he had no first-hand knowledge of a transaction which he said had taken place between Shaw and Taylor, a street fair man.

Tells of Arrest.

He then testified that he had arrested a boy on charge of having stolen a $450 diamond from Strange Brothers, jewelry store. He found the stone on the boy and booked a case against him. The next day when he had appeared in court, he was surprised to find that it had been taken over by the detective department and dismissed.

The jeweler who had instigated the arrest told of the officer, R. E. Strange, a member of the firm of Strange Bros., took the stand and told of the diamond from his showcase. He said that after the boy snatched the diamond and ran, he called both the city and Pinkerton detectives.

Gave a Description.

"The detective came," he said, "and I gave them a description of the boy."

He also told of his search for the boy and the final capture of the boy by Officer Whitten.

Mr. Black: "Did you testify against the boy?"

Witness: "No. I was phoned in was called off."

Witness: "Who phoned you?"

Witness: "I don't know."

Mr. Black: "Was it called off without your consent?"

Witness: "Yes."

Upon cross-examination by Judge Hines, it developed that the witness' father came to Mr. Strange two or three days later and informed him that the case was dismissed and he could recover his stone. The father was the information source on the dismissal of the case, said the witness, who said that he had agreed that whatever the court did would be all right.

M. B. Jarman, of the Dunham Oil company, testified that he had frequented the place at 45 1/2 Central avenue, and told of details of the game's operation. He said that he won $1 on one occasion but lost between $700 and $800.

Witness: "Did you ever have a conversation with McBride or Woodward about an impending raid?"

Witness: "No, sir. I never saw McBride or Woodward either at the gambling house or in the garage underneath. I went back to the place and found both McBride and Woodward there, but no detectives were there."

As far as I know they were never arrested."

Witness: "How many times were you in the gambling house?"

Witness: "I went there daily for a month or more. I was there two or three days after the raid and the place was running along as usual."

Woodward the Boss.

Mr. Black: "Who was the boss?"

Witness: "Floyd Woodward. McBride was a paid employee."

Mr. Black: "How long has Woodward been a gambler?"

Witness: "I was informed that he had been a gambler long before I came to Atlanta, eight years ago."

Mr. Black: "Was he ever arrested as a gambler?"

Witness: "I understand that several years ago he and Ed Ellis were in the raid on his place. He was fined $500 in the Hotel Ansley. He was crooked card game. I understand that he was finally disposed of in Judge Calhoun's court."

Mr. Black: "Did you ever see Woodward in the raid on his place?"

Witness: "They were often around the door and around the garage. Woodward was standing in the door and out of the door while they were there."

Mr. Black: "Did you ever see Woodward talking with any detectives?"

Witness: "Yes, with the chief, with Shaw and others."

Had Been Arrested.

Judge Hines: "Where did you live before you came to Atlanta?"

Witness: "Cairo, Ill."

Judge Hines: "Have you ever been arrested?"

Witness: "Frequently, six or seven times in Atlanta, I guess."

Judge Hines: "Where by whom, and under what charges?"

Witness: "Always something in connection with gambling."

He then related in chronological order his experience. He was arrested eight times. Sometimes he said he had been fined, sometimes acquitted, sometimes he had put up collateral and hadn't answered the charges in court.

Witness: "Did you ever make evidence to convict and that when they were unable to put up collateral bonds and forfeit them they were simply giving the city that money?"

Chief Beavers: "Have the police authority to run a man out of town?"

Witness: "I have never believed so. It is done, though. I don't know if the courts have the right to order a man to leave town."

Have Police Reputation.

Mr. Jones: "You have a police reputation?"

Witness: "I should judge that the police know I play."

Mr. Jones: "You have frequently been seen with detectives?"

Witness: "Yes."

Mr. Jones: "You don't see anything wrong in that?"

Witness: "No."

Mr. Black: "You never ran a gambling house?"

Witness: "No."

Mr. Black: "Woodward ran two or three at one time, didn't he?"

Witness: "He ran one at a time."

Mr. Black: "Did you ever talk to Woodward about the gambling situation?"

Witness: "I did. I asked Lieutenant Shaw when Woodward and Mills were under arrest in connection with the Ansley hotel raid why he didn't run them out of town."

"Told him that they were notoriously crooked, and that if there was anything displaceable, it was a crooked gambler. Shaw told me that he was unable to get sufficient evidence against them; that he couldn't get his witnesses to come into court in the criminal cases, as he was endeavoring to recover his money from Woodward and Ellis in a civil procedure."

Answering Questions.

Mr. Jones: "Could Lieutenant Shaw have done anything else that was better than the game so persistent?"

Witness: "I am not criticizing Lieutenant Shaw. I am simply answering questions."

Judge Hines: "How was it you went back to the game so persistent, if it was crooked?"

Witness: "The game wasn't crooked. They simply had the usual house equipment. That was big enough for them to clear $10,000 in four months, according to Woodward's own statement to me."

Judge Hines: "I thought you said that Woodward was a crooked gambler?"

Witness: "He was."

Judge Hines: "And still you played in this game, knowing that it was operated by a crook?"

Witness: "Woodward had two methods of making money. When he picked up a sucker around a hotel and went for big money at one whack, he and his confederates always used crooked cards. When he was running a bank dice game, he knew the straight percentage was enough to give him a fine return and he knew it was the best policy to keep the game straight. I was in the Central avenue game was leave the Central avenue game was honest."

Following the interesting and deliberate testimony of Foster, was that of Arthur McIntyre, of Atlanta, who said he had patronized both the Central street and 45 1/2 Central avenue. The Central avenue place did the best business, he testified, according to the witness, who was not cross-examined.

Lost in Game.

James Sernigella, who said he lost $500 or $600 at the Central avenue place, took the stand. He said that on two occasions McBride received telephone calls and immediately warned the gamblers of an impending raid.

On the stand was J. A. Fuller, who said he went to the police station with a Mr. Hudson to complain about the Central avenue joint on a Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Black: "Did you talk to Mr. Fuller about the place?"

Witness: "No, but I listened to Mr. Hudson talk to him."

Mr. Black: "What did Mr. Hudson tell him?"

Witness: "He said something about having raided it once or twice and finding nothing but a bunch of folks eating."

The witness said that Mr. Hudson's trip to complain was an act of the large number of extremely young men who were seen going into the place.

Cross-examination tended toward development of the fact that Chief Poole's failure to make the raid was owing to the difficulty of obtaining evidence against the joint.

Judge Hines: "Didn't Chief Poole ask you and Hudson to give him names of people you saw going into the place?"

Witness: "Yes; he said something like that."

Mr. Jones: "Didn't you and Mr. Hudson both refuse to give names?"

Witness: "I didn't know any; but Mr. Hudson refused."

"Slim" Dunning on Stand.

C. B. "Slim" Dunning was quizzed by Mr. Black concerning the place at 51 1/2 Broad street when he first took the stand. The witness said he operated a pressing club at this place having two rooms.

Mr. Black: "One room was used for gambling, wasn't it, Mr. Dunning?"

Witness: "No, sir."

The witness that his place was raided the first two consecutive nights he had possession and that he then sold out to Woodward. He never admitted having run a gambling place.

He said that the only officer he remembered in the raid on his place was Lieutenant Waggoner. The witness said he did not know what happened after Woodward had taken over the joint.

Gunn Tells Story.

Next called to the witness stand was the first of the police officers of the building at 35 1/2 South Broad street, where Woodward had established. This witness testified to having seen men going in and coming out of the place. Woodward's occupation of the quarters.

Witness: "Did you ever see Floyd Woodward there?"

Witness: "Almost every day."

He said that Woodward was there constantly until after the raid made by Mr. Boykin, and he also said that it was necessary to take the hinges off the door when the raid was made by the solicitor's forces. The witness said he saw one of the raiding party. He told of cloth-covered tables and other furnishings of the place.

Mr. Black: "Did you ever report this place?"

Witness: "Yes, to the policemen on the beat and to others."

The witness said that he also called the station house and told of his suspicions, and that he reported it to Detective Cillescu.

Nothing Ever Done.

On one occasion, he said, Lieutenant Waggoner went up into the place, saw the game, and came down later with no prisoners. This was the last he heard of it, said the man on the stand. Prior to this, he said, he had told Patrolman Lawson how he might get into the place and find the game in operation if he desired. Nothing ever came of this, according to the story.

G. A. Rockwell, who had a lease on the property there, testified that he had been notified by Kelly that he subsequently noticed a number of men going in and out of the place. He stated that he reported it to the chief of detectives' office in October or November, 1930.

Mr. Black: "When you reported this to the detective department, what response did you get?"

Witness: "They thanked me and said they would look into it."

Mr. Black: "Did you ever report it again?"

Witness: "Yes, to an officer down by Franklin & Cox one night."

Mr. Black: "Did you ever get any action out of either one of the several reports you made on the place?"

Witness: "No, sir."

Mr. Clay: "You tell the detective department all you knew?"

Witness: "Yes."

Judge Hines: "Didn't you know, in fact, that the place was raided?"

Witness: "Not until the raid was made by Mr. Boykin."

Judge Hines: "Didn't you know of one before that?"

Witness: "No, sir. I did not."

Bondman Testified.

D. N. Jordan, who gave his occupation as that of professional bondman, told of a deal he had made with the occupants of the place with regard to their having an extension put onto his telephone. They told him their business was newly advancing, he said. He told of seeing many men going in and coming out of the place.

Upon questioning by Mr. Clay, the witness said he had known Lieutenant Waggoner for about fifteen years and had always found him straight and honest.

Policeman H. V. Lawson took the stand at this juncture and said that the reason he did not follow up the tip of Mr. Gunn to completion was because he had heard that the detectives had an eye on the place and had, in fact, already raided it. He said that he remembered seeing only two men go into the place.

Attorney Sam Massell, who represented one of the victims of Woodward, Doc Henry, "Puss" McCaskey and others of the syndicate, testified that he saw for the aid of the detective department and that Henry was the only one of the gamblers arrested. He said that the

Perfect Frying Results

Good cooks know that proper regulation of heat is essential if perfect frying results are to be secured. They know that this is not possible with ordinary fry pans because they do not spread the heat evenly all over.

Their preference is for the "Wear-Ever" Aluminum Fry Pan because its metal takes the heat quickly and evenly — does not concentrate it in spots.

can be used for many purposes.

For general frying — eggs, potatoes and fritters.

As a deep fat fryer for croquettes and crullers.

It is especially excellent for cooking breaded veal cutlets or other breaded meats which need slow, uniform cooking and are most palatable when cooked without any extra moisture.

"Wear-Ever" Aluminum Fry Pans should not be confused with ordinary aluminum fry pans. There is a difference.

"Wear-Ever" Fry Pans are made from hard, thick sheet aluminum which has been subjected to the tremendous pressure of gigantic rolling mills.

Dealers now have "Wear-Ever" Fry Pans in stock.

JAPAN REFUSES TO ALTER STAND

Cabinet Sees No Reason for Change of Attitude Because of Recent American Note.

Tokio, April 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—The cabinet yesterday decided there was no reason to alter Japan's policy on the exclusion of Japanese from the island of Manchuria. The decision was made after the cabinet had received the note from the United States government, which was a reply to the Japanese note of April 15. The Japanese note had stated that Japan was prepared to accept the principle of non-discrimination in Manchuria, but that it was not prepared to accept the principle of equality of rights for all races. The Japanese cabinet decided that it was not necessary to alter its stand on this issue, and that it would continue to maintain its position.

COLOMBIAN REATTY RATIFIED BY SENATE

on the amendment. A milder amendment was offered by Senator La Follette, the republican, Wisconsin, who supported most of the other amendments proposed, voted loudly in the negative on the Borah amendment.

Final Debate Ended.

The final vote ended eight days of debate, the treaty by agreement having been taken up by the senate immediately after the convening of the sixty-seventh congress in extraordinary session. Opponents of ratification, composed largely of what is known in the senate as the progressive republican group, were vigorous in their denunciation of the pact throughout the discussion. They declared that the treaty would place a stain on the name of Theodore Roosevelt, would be a use of the name of a great president to support a policy which he would not have approved, and that it would amount to a compromise with a "blackmail demand on the part of Colombia."

Will Improve Relations.

Supporters of ratification declared that the treaty would improve the relations of the United States with Latin American republics, would satisfy demands for equality of rights for all races, and would aid the United States in the world quest for oil. In connection with the treaty, the senate also considered the first address of the debate read a letter from Secretary of the Interior, Mr. Clegg, to the effect that the United States was prepared to accept the principle of non-discrimination in Manchuria, but that it was not prepared to accept the principle of equality of rights for all races.

Atlanta Druggists Hear Discussion Of Drug Business

The Atlanta Druggists' club held a dinner Wednesday evening in the Daffodil cafe, the purpose being to report on the progress of the plans under way for the permanent organization of the club. T. C. Marshall, secretary of the club, made a short talk in which he stated that the meeting was primarily an instructive one, in that a series of questions and answers had been prepared for the occasion by C. C. Crabb, chairman of the program committee. W. V. Fitzgerald, secretary of the club, read the report of the last meeting in March, making a few pertinent statements and suggestions relative to the successful operation of a drug business.

Mr. Crabb, of the East Atlanta pharmacy, outlined plans for the complete organization of a drug business. He urged upon the members the necessity of training employees to the highest standard of efficiency, and suggested several means of stimulating the employee's interest in his employer's behalf, and detailed the methods of handling every department with a view to the actual overhead cost of operation, based upon a reasonable margin of profit.

Gray Wolf Stalks In Coal Regions Of North Alabama

26,000 Persons Near Starvation, Says Desperate Appeal of Striking Miners.

Birmingham, Ala., April 20.—Twenty-six thousand persons are at the point of starvation in the coal fields of northern Alabama, Governor Thomas E. Kilby was told today in an appeal by the Salvation Army's southeastern division, with headquarters here. The organization stated to the governor that it was helping to the limit of its resources but that additional aid must come from other sources.

Clubs and civic bodies of Birmingham made appeals for help on behalf of the miners and their families, many of whom are described as hungry and almost naked.

A Birmingham newspaper also appealed for funds "to aid the thousands of men, women and children who are in want."

Re-employment Asked. Pratt City local United Mine Workers of America, made formal demand upon Governor Kilby either for re-employment in the mines or for financial relief. The statement to the governor was that "3,400 souls of our local alone are in dire circumstances," and adds, "we have applied for re-employment and have been flatly turned down."

Continuing, the Pratt City local says, "We make this appeal to you because the settlement of the strike was placed in your hands."

The local union, Marvel also appealed to the governor for help for "634 destitute men, women and children."

Unions Are Barred. This local says in a statement to Governor Kilby that "our local has received circular letters from the operators that they will not re-employ any member of the union."

In an appeal late today, Wylam local told Governor Kilby that "we believe in all things being done in law and order, but there is a proverb which says 'a hungry man knoweth no law.'"

The appeal to the governor said that 4,500 persons within five miles of the local's headquarters are destitute and that "the responsibility rests upon your shoulders."

DODGE COMPLETES ROAD THROUGH COUNTY

Eastman, Ga., April 20.—(Special.) Forces at work on the roads in Dodge county have completed construction of a highway from the Pulaski county line through Eastman to the Telfair county line. This link in the state highway connects Macon and Brunswick, passing through Hawkinsville, Eastman, Milledgeville, and Baxley and Jessup. The road will at an early date be turned over to the state highway department for maintenance, county officials announce. The Pulaski county workmen have completed construction of the link of the same highway. Telfair forces are actively at work in that county.

NEGRO WITNESSES AFRAID TO RETURN TO "MURDER FARM"

An interesting story of how Clyde Freeman, former negro boss on the "murder farm," and Rufus Manning, an uncle of Clyde Manning, the black boss whose confession startled the whole country, and caused the conviction of John S. Williams, were called before the grand jury of the state of Georgia recently and when asked if they desired to return to the plantation answered affirmatively only later to plead with federal agents not to release them, was disclosed at the Fulton county Tower Wednesday night.

While they were before Williams and his two negro associates declared they were afraid to say they did not want to return, according to the story they are said to have told federal agents when they asked not to be released.

CHANGES IN METHODS AT CANAL PROBABLE

Washington, April 20.—Wide-spread changes in the methods of administering the Panama canal zone by the war department, particularly as regards the pay, privileges and allowances of the civil establishment are expected to follow a visit to the zone to be made soon by Secretary Weeks. The war secretary announced today that as soon as he could spare the time he would go there with the view of gathering data on which to base a reorganization of the entire method of administration, which, he declared, is now conducted extravagantly.

The present cost of administration of the canal zone, exclusive of the military forces is about $800,000 a month.

ALLIES WILL WARN OF NEW PENALTIES

Meeting Between Briand and Lloyd-George for Purpose of Dispatching Warnings to Germans.

London, April 20.—The primary purpose of the coming week-end conference between Premier Briand, of France, and Premier Lloyd-George, of Great Britain, is to flourish the big stick at Germany.

The French political leaders will present formally to Lloyd-George a draft of the penalties they will demand if Germany defaults on her 600,000,000 pound payment on May 1. The program has been drafted by Marshall Foch and Weygand and it is definitely known that the threat of wide occupation of German territory.

British officials denied Wednesday that any troops reinforcements had been sent towards the Ruhr district, but at the same time they admitted that the reserves and defense volunteers are to be kept mobilized indefinitely within the ninety-day limit.

Officials connected with the premier's office declared Wednesday that the French military forces available for duty were sufficient for the present, and that only Britain's moral support was needed to make any action regarding the enforcement of additional penalties effective.

NEW CONCESSIONS FIND FAVOR WITH PUBLIC.

Berlin, April 20.—As a price of preventing further occupation of the Ruhr district, territory in which Germany plans vast hopes for her industrial future, public sentiment in Berlin is extremely favorable towards new concessions to the entente.

The threat of wider occupation, while official German disclaimers that it would assist the allies in any material way, has at least had something of the psychological effect for which it was intended.

It is believed now that the Berlin government will make its reparations demands directly to the allies. America's rejection of the German offer out from Germany has not yet been made fully public here. From semi-official sources it is learned that the government is wholly uncertain as to its next move, largely because of America's refusal to come to her side in support of any definite compromise.

While the German cabinet has not yet indicated the nature of its reply to the reparations commission's demand that the German gold reserves be transferred to some point in the occupied zone, President Hindenburg, at the Reichsbank, has refused the financial writers summarily reject the proposal.

They take the stand that the gold is not only the property of a private bank but also of the German people. The experts assert such a proceeding would work havoc with German economic interests and promptly result in an advance of all commodities to fabulous prices.

A special dispatch from Essen today says the new customs control zone for the collection of duties under the penalties plan became effective at midnight last night. Passenger trains are being detained ten minutes for inspection of passengers and their baggage.

ALLEGED CON MEN ARE TAKEN IN NET

rison, many years mayor of Chicago and that city's most famous executive, is wanted here for his alleged connection with the bunco gang. Solicitor Boykin stated that he was searching for this man.

Federal officials arrested Lloyd, of Huntsville, Ala., in Indianapolis under the alias of G. W. Overton; Jim Connolly, of Atlanta, alias A. J. Conway, in a hotel in Huntsville; J. J. Huntington, alias Hooster Kid, and Charles McCord, Atlanta, in Cincinnati.

All of the men are wanted in Atlanta on indictments resulting from Solicitor Boykin's exposure of the gambling syndicate which operated here for several years under alleged police protection.

The federal government started assisting Solicitor Boykin a number of weeks ago, and it is understood that a long search was made for the men arrested Wednesday. The agents followed the alleged gamblers through many cities and a net was set throughout the country for their capture. It was their desire to catch the man while operating. All of the arrests occurred almost simultaneously in the three different cities, and it is intimated other developments of this nature may come at an early date.

All of the arrests were made on specific charges of using the mails in an attempt to defraud, and postal inspectors took a prominent part in the search which led up to their apprehension. Owing to the fact they are held under federal warrants, no trouble will be experienced in bringing the men to this city for trial. Extrajudicial papers are not even necessary.

Marshall Hinchman, Glenwood, Ala., was the postulated victim of the alleged gang, according to officials. The man is a prominent farmer, and was spending the winter with his wife at Hot Springs, Ark., when it was said that he was selected as a "worthy victim" of this remnant of the famous Atlanta syndicate. The former was induced to go to Huntsville, it is alleged, where he was inveigled into a fake gambling scheme.

Money Is Saved. Then followed the old story of making the farmer establish his credit, after having won by cashing a check for a large sum of money. He was then told that he was in the act of being fleeced out of more than $50,000, it is claimed.

Among the postoffice officials interested in the arrests were Inspector Charles R. Riddiford, of Birmingham; Cole, of Chattanooga, and T. M. Diskins, of Cincinnati.

"This bunco probe hasn't gotten to the bottom of things. Powers had friends enough in a number of places to make it difficult for him to get protection if he wanted to come out of this, but some of the letters highly recommending the prisoner to state farm officials were signed by high Fulton county officials," said Judge Davidson.

Says Deputy Prisoner. He made his statement following Warden J. E. Smith's discussion of the gambler's escape with news of the prison official has asserted that the Fulton county deputy sheriff began his sentence "patted Powers on the shoulder and said to me: 'He's a mighty fine man; you can trust him anywhere in the world on anything.'"

Not only did he state this, but he also declared that the prisoner was turned over to him as sent to serve a sentence from two to five years following his conviction on a charge of simple larceny, and that he did not know that it was a case of larceny after trust. This fact, supported by the strong letters of endorsement from high Fulton county officials and Atlanta citizens, the warden said, gave him every reason in the world to believe Powers "would make a trusty."

It was in which he was introduced to the farm there was nothing to indicate he was. In fact, he was turned over to me as a man of highest gentility, a gentleman and a man whom I could trust to the limit," said Warden Smith, in discussing the case.

"He was given the highest kind of recommendation by the deputy sheriff who brought him to the farm and who, as he was leaving, patted Powers on the shoulder and said to me: 'He is a mighty fine man; you can trust him anywhere in the world on anything.'"

"That attitude was borne out by a number of letters of recommendation from the county physician of Fulton, from high officials and a number of very prominent citizens of Atlanta. They all gave him an exceptional character and impressed the fact that he was thoroughly trustworthy in every respect," he continued.

Backed Up by Letters. "Powers was turned over to me as a man convicted of simple larceny sentenced to serve a term of two to five years. It was not even so far as I knew, a case of larceny after trust, and that fact, backed by the strong letters of endorsement and recommendation from Fulton county officials and Atlanta citizens gave me every reason in the world to believe he would make a trusty."

He had, also, a certificate from the county physician of Fulton that he was physically unable to do heavy manual labor. A sentence of three years was pronounced on him, and he was put to work in the kitchen, but I took it, with the information furnished me, to mean that he was physically unfit to do road work; was a high type of man, and was sent to the farm because he could not stand chain-gang conditions.

"Sooner or later," he said, "we will catch him, and the sooner it is the better it will suit me. They don't make a clean get-away from us. Old Bill Minor tried it many times, but we always caught him and up to the day he died he never was able to escape about three times ago we brought back an escaped convict from the wilds of Canada for whom we searched a long while before we landed him—but we got him and he is now at the farm."

"We are going to get Abe Powers," he said.

department had been asked to arrest three men. The identification by the client of the gamblers in the detective department's rogues' gallery was breached.

Point Out Men. Mr. Black: "Didn't your client point out the men who had victimized him in the rogues' gallery?"

Witness: "That was my understanding."

Judge Hines: "Isn't it true that Henry was the only man who pointed out that Henry was arrested?"

Witness: "I couldn't say positively for I wasn't with him at the time."

Judge Hines: "Who represented the men in the case?"

Witness: "John V. Smith."

Judge Hines: "What became of the case?"

Witness: "He was bound over to the city court."

Witness: "The first colored witness, was the next to take the stand, testifying with regard to the operation of the bunco game on the Courtland street viaduct by one Kate McWhorter. The policemen came to the place about three times a week, said the witness, and only on one or two occasions, had capture any liquor."

Mr. Black: "McWhorter was selling liquor every day, wasn't he?"

Witness: "Yes, sir."

Mr. Black: "And they came there looking for whiskey about three times a week?"

Witness: "Yes, sir."

Mr. Black: "They found liquor only once?"

Witness: "That's all I saw them find."

Mr. Black: "It was there all the time, wasn't it?"

Witness: "Yes, sir."

During the examination of this witness, Mr. Clay asked him if he had not been brought into the case by J. Jacobs. The negro said he had not, and Mr. Jacobs himself jumped up and hotly denied it. Mr. Clay: "That Mr. Jacobs brought you into the case and that he, himself, has been arrested at least fifty times for receiving stolen goods in his Decatur street store?"

The negro denied it mildly, but Mr. Jacobs jumped to his feet and shouted that the whole business was a lie.

The last witness called to the stand Wednesday evening was Mr. Mills, who was testifying with regard to the alleged cruelty of former Officers, Calvey and Calkins, to an old negro named Allen Thomas. Upon motion of Mr. Couch, the witness was excused until he should get into better physical shape, he having appeared rather nervous and unstable under the examination.

VIVIANT BOARDS STEAMER FOR HOME

New York, April 20.—Rene Viviani who has been in this country nearly a month as special envoy from the French government, boarded the steamship France shortly before noon today to return to his native land.

Aside from expressing general satisfaction over his trip officially and socially, the former French premier made no statement.

Accompanying Mr. Viviani was Stephen Lausanne, editor of Le Matin, a Paris newspaper, who came to this country as a traveling companion to the former premier.

Red Carnations Yield the Palm To Scarlet Tie

Herbert Clay in Mourning and Steve Glass in the Limelight.

BY PAUL WARWICK. It gives us great pleasure to inform the breathless public that the bunco rally, from the amusement standpoint, is back on its feet, after the severe relapse it suffered during the Tuesday matinee. The Wednesday evening session was entirely pleasant and augurs well for the future satisfaction of those who go to be entertained.

Up until Wednesday evening, the red carnation that Herbert Clay wore to one of the former sessions had not found a competitor. As a feature of adornment, it stood far above anything that had been offered. Its colorful glint from the lapel of the attorney is remembered by all. But Wednesday night its glory was shattered. It has given way to the trend of time. In its place, forever more, will be the scarlet tie which Steve Glass wore to the Wednesday session. A sartorial triumph has been did, it so fascinated the audience that the testimony was overlooked to a marked extent. Eyes and ears would not co-ordinate, so busy were eyes. It was a wonderful tie and long may it wave.

Brilliance and Savviness. True enough, the pristine brilliance of Mr. Soelke's testimony cannot be denied, his savoir faire et dire was admirable to behold. But Mr. Foster combined brilliance with savvy and an even temper that could not be mustn't forget. Dr. Horace Grant was back in his accustomed place Wednesday evening, seeming to enjoy the performance more than ever before. The fact that he missed the Tuesday session and was just naturally craving some more of this form of excitement accounts for his no doubt. He and his pipe were there, and consequently things went forward without interruption.

Officer Hudson, of the city force, had a seat near the press box Wednesday night, and confidentially ascertained that he honestly expects to get a suit of convict stripes before the probe is ended. He is actually worried about it, but as long as he can worry and weigh 216 pounds, he should worry.

A ten-story building, costing $1,000,000, has been erected at High Point, N. C., for the sole purpose of housing the national exhibitions of the Southern Furniture Market association.

Health-Happiness-Contentment

What is the barrier that blocks your progress toward those things you most desire. Answer that question and you have gone a long way towards determining your individual secret of success. You cannot have a desire without having also the power to gratify that desire. Are you giving yourself a square deal? Are you making the most of the powers that lie within you? The most wonderful thing in existence is the rounding out of a human life. The rest of the world makes way for the one who knows where he's going and what he's going to do when he gets there. You are fully equipped to round out your life according to the ideals that your own mind can create. Efficiency means getting the most done with the least waste of effort. Are you using every bit of your energy in such a way as to have it come back to you full of more force than you had used? If not, you are wasting effort and your efficiency is low. With constant attention and care to its vital working parts, you maintain efficiency in your automobile. Did it ever occur to you that your body machine, your equipment for personal efficiency, deserves the same attention? How much attention do you give to the vital organs of your body? How much do you know about them and the part they play in the realization of your desires?

THE MOST IMPORTANT FACTOR IN SUCCESS IS HEALTH

DO YOU KNOW? That the basis of all life is the individual cell—so small that you cannot see it without a microscope—that the human body is composed of millions of tiny, living, breathing, feeling, individual lives, each with its own particular work to do for the efficiency of the body as a whole.

DO YOU KNOW? That all life goes through the same processes of cell multiplication and specializing into various organs—for its consciousness, for converting certain foods into its substance for protection and for reproducing its kind—for Growth and Development.

DO YOU KNOW? That Health means balancing of these activities—that sickness and death is only failure to maintain this balance on the part of the individual cells that comprise any living organ or organism? The health of the cells determines health of the body.

DO YOU KNOW? That just as "a chain is no stronger than its weakest link" so your liver, one of your vital organs, is no more healthy than the individual cells—that a stagnant liver is one in which the cells are inactive, dormant, not properly nourished and stimulated to further growth and development?

DO YOU KNOW? That this is true of every organ of the body—the heart, lungs, stomach, kidneys, etc.—these organs can do their work correctly only when their individual cells are supplied with the right kind of food properly directed to the cells that need it?

"One Minute Night and Morning"

NO DIETING Eat what you want, and all you want. Pure food cannot harm the body that is kept strong and vigorous with properly-working vital organs.

NO EXERCISING Physical exercise is easily overdone. Unusual exercise is unnatural and exhaustive. It weakens and destroys more cells and tissues than it builds.

NO STUDYING No mysterious and vague theories and principles to study—no difficult science to learn—no waiting for results.

THIS O. K. INADEQUATE

The mere fact that Judge R. E. Davison, chairman of the prison commission, has written "O. K." across the record of the warden and subordinate officials of the state prison farm will be insufficient to satisfy the people of Georgia that the recent escape of Abe Powers merits no further investigation.

Powers, confessed bunco gangster, was taken to the farm about a month ago, after having boasted to his keepers, while in jail in Atlanta, that he would not serve out his term—that he would soon be out of prison; that if he could not get his freedom one way he would another!

Within a few days following his removal to the prison farm by the Fulton county authorities he was put virtually in the status of a trustee, and given privileges and liberties which are the prison goal of all convicts, but which ordinarily are obtainable only after months, if not years, of good behavior in confinement, and after ample demonstration, on the convict's part, of his trustworthiness.

Last Friday, while acting as waterboy, unguarded, for a squad of convict workers in a field, Powers failed to return from a spring to which he had gone for a pail of water.

Investigation showed that, out of sight of the lone guard who was keeping watch over the convicts in the field, he had walked off the prison grounds, and made good his threat of escape.

Approximately twenty-four hours later the Fulton county authorities were notified by the prison management that Powers had escaped, and, so far as they know, he is going yet!

Chairman Davison, of the prison board, went to Milledgeville to conduct an investigation.

"I went into the matter thoroughly," he said upon his return—"and I am satisfied Powers received no inside aid. Warden J. E. Smith and his subordinate officials at the farm are in no way to be censured for the escape. They are given a clean slate."

It may be true that Powers received "no inside aid," but in saying that the officials in charge of the prison farm "are in no way to be censured for the escape," and in giving them a "clean slate," Judge Davison has gone farther than the people of Georgia will be willing to follow him—at least, until the peculiar circumstances in connection with this subversion of justice are cleared up more satisfactorily than by the unsupported statement of the chairman of the prison farm management and of official personnel!

Just From Georgia

By FRANK L. STANTON.

The Far Call.

The far hills are calling.
The valleys seem to say:
"Bird songs and blossoms
And here's a holiday!"

And the shiny, rippled river
Is talking just that way.

You look toward the far hills
From city windows high;
The hills are below you,
Yet closer to the sky!

And you wonder if the valleys
Heard a far off human sigh.

Calling and calling—
Hills and valleys bleed;
But Tull shut the window—
But Tull shut the window—

With the task is best;
With the world-worker weary
For the valley's peaceful rest.

Greece called a king from exile recently and her war troubles are greater now than before. His return has not had the quieting influence on the situation which was predicted for it.

But it made the eager Austrian exile knock at his old home gates and demand the keys to the king's rooms!

By and by they may come to understand that the "kings' rooms," as once they may have known them, are now part of "the bankrupt fiction," and that kings that have lost out must be content with a shelter—wherever they can hang their hats.

They are known to be of necessity, extraordinarily shrewd, resourceful, desperate.

Usually, as prisoners, they are well "onto the ropes," they are not only familiar with all of the ordinary methods used by convicts to break jail, but are constantly employing their wits to invent new ones.

More than that, invariably they have confederates on the outside, as smart and resourceful as they, who are also using their wits to the end of getting the imprisoned ones out—by one way or by another!

Yet, knowing—as they must have known—that Powers was a convict of this type, the Georgia prison farm authorities conferred upon him a status which it usually requires months, if not years, for well-behaved convicts to attain, almost before he had had time in which to familiarize himself with the prison rule book!

It is too much, at this stage of the proceedings, to say that those entrusted by the state with the custody of convicts "are in no way to be censured for the escape" of this criminal!

Public sentiment will be justified in waiting awhile—and in insisting upon further investigation—before accepting Mr. Davison's opinion!

Identifies Fletcher as the Man Who Took Part in Atlanta Bunco Game.

OF $27,500 LOSS

Following a short Wednesday afternoon session, the trial of William Fletcher, alias Canadian Willie, alias the Count, charged with fleeing O. Wynne, of Memphis, Tenn., out of $27,500, was continued until Thursday morning at 9 o'clock in the criminal division of the superior court Judge John D. Humphries presiding.

Although the defense will attempt to prove that the defendant was not in Atlanta when Mr. Wynne lost his money in the Walton building, the state, on the witness stand Wednesday, positively identified Fletcher as one of the men who was in the "exchange" and assisted in fleeing him of his money. Besides getting $25,000 from Mr. Wynne, he had cashed two checks aggregating that sum, he stated.

When a republican member has some fellow on his hands to whom he must furnish a bread ticket, and there are hundreds of them, he usually gets him a job as a "guide."

And Washington just now is surfeited with "guides." There are "guides" everywhere—except to the ple center.

Pennsylvania avenue, from Sixth street to the capital, is as full of these government "guides" as a carnival midway is full of fakers.

Every countryman and every tourist, who happens to be walking toward the great seat of his nation's government as it approached and told all about everything in sight that he doesn't want to know; and then informed that "Congress will convene at noon."

Botanical gardens, in which there are some fine but inexplicable shrubbery, a few flower beds, a green house, and a bunch of shrubbery, fills in a block of space to the right, bounded on the north by Chinese laundries and on the south by a square.

These gardens are the mecca of the "guides."

They talk about the flowers like a trained botanist from the biological laboratories.

On Friday morning a group of Georgia members of congress, headed by Senator Harris, decided to walk back to the capital from a conference at the interstate commerce commission, twenty blocks north.

It was early. The spring morning was inviting. The air was crisp and clear.

And Mr. Harris in the long distance walking champion of the eastern wing, anyhow.

So they strolled along.

Key-Arkwright Debate Blocked; Quorum Lacking

Major James L. Key, leading exponent of municipal ownership of public utilities, and Preston S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Railway and Power company, nearly met in public debate Wednesday afternoon.

Both were "champing the bit" for the fray. The mayor paced restlessly up and down in his office, now and then casting furtive glances through the open door at Mr. Arkwright, who strode with momentary glances in the direction of the restless mayor.

The two antagonists in the promised debate were waiting for the arrival of the other members of the committee, which was to sit in judgment on the merits of their respective views on the question of municipal ownership of public utilities.

Although the defense will attempt to prove that the defendant was not in Atlanta when Mr. Wynne lost his money in the Walton building, the state, on the witness stand Wednesday, positively identified Fletcher as one of the men who was in the "exchange" and assisted in fleeing him of his money. ## Miss Rose Weds Mr. Cornelison

At Lovely Home Ceremony

Austin—Callaway Wedding at Home.

The marriage of Miss Anne Austin to Irvin Massey Callaway, of Jacksonville, Fla., was solemnized last evening at 6:30 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus H. Turner, in the Delta Monte Apartments in Ansley Park, Dr. James E. Dickey officiating. The beautiful apartment was artistically decorated with stately palms, spring flowers and napagons, in the different shades of yellow. An impressive altar was formed by the sun parlor of graceful rope of smilax and against the green background stood in relief cathedral canopies holding burning tapers. Tall white wicker flower baskets filled with Easter lilies and tied with bows of fluffy white tulle were arranged on either side. Miss Claude Sims, who was the bride's only attendant, was beautifully gowned in yellow Canton crepe, embroidered in silk, and carried a bouquet of Avon Ward roses tied with white tulle. Augustus H. Turner acted as best man.

Lovely Bride.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Edward Harrison Austin, was lovely in a smart tailored suit of dark blue tulle, trimmed in silk braid and a hat of gray straw. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses showered with valley lilies. Mr. Callaway and his bride left later in the evening for a wedding trip, after which they will be at home in Jacksonville, Fla.

Dinner-Dance At Druid Hills.

The Gamma Tau chapter of the Psi Omega Fraternity at the Atlanta Southern Dental college, will entertain with a dinner-dance at the Druid Hills Golf club this evening. The decorations will be roses, sweet peas and the fraternity colors.

For Mrs. McAnally.

One of the prettiest events of Wednesday afternoon was the bridge tea which Mrs. Samuel Winn Jordan and Mrs. William Bennett, Jr., gave at Mrs. Jordan's home on East Tenth street, complimenting Mrs. W. P. McAnally, a recent bride. The house was decorated with baskets and vases of pink roses. The tea table was overlaid with a handsome lace and hand-worked cover, and adorning the center was a silver basket holding pink roses and surrounded by pink tapers held by silver candlesticks.

For top score a corsage of orange flowers was given, and the consolation was a tiny incense burner. Mrs. Jordan wore a most becoming afternoon gown of gray lace, over Canton crepe, with a giraffe of lace. Silver slippers completed the costume.

Mrs. Martin was handsomely costumed in navy taffeta, heavily embroidered in gray, and wore a black braid hat feather trimmed. Mrs. McAnally's gown was of black lace over a foundation of French blue charmeuse and a black lace hat.

The guests included Mrs. McAnally, Misses Catherine Brady, Katharine Engelhart, Kathleen Muller, to Chaves, Jennie Hall, Virginia Martin, Ruthie Herrington, Mrs. J.

Miss Sumner Honored With Bridge Party.

Mrs. Thonetta Fain entertained at bridge Wednesday afternoon at the Druid Hills Golf club in honor of Mrs. Harold Sumner of England, the guest of Mrs. Troup Howard.

Miss Massengale Entertains.

A happy occasion yesterday was the afternoon bridge given by Miss Margaret Massengale at the Piedmont Driving club, when her guests were the students and faculty of Washington University. The tables were arranged in the palm garden and afterwards tea was served from a daintily appointed table decorated in spring flowers and mountain iris.

The prizes for top score at each table were dainty hand-made handkerchiefs, the guest prize was a box of hand embroidered handkerchiefs.

The guests included a few close friends.

There was a company of thirty-five, and the game was played in the morning. A dainty refreshment was served at the card.

Miss Massengale was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. Elmo Massengale.

BANDIT SUSPECTS JAILED BY POLICE

Officers Believe They Have Under Arrest the Three Men Responsible for Peachtree Hold-ups.

Suspected of being principals in three recent daring hold-ups in Atlanta, three young white men were arrested by city detectives Wednesday afternoon and held at police station on a blanket charge of conspiracy.

The three suspects were grilled at length by the arresting officers, but the result of the questioning was not divulged.

The men are: E. A. Goolsby, aged 26, of Memphis; J. F. King, aged 21, of Hayden street, and Willie F. Starks, aged 21, of a local hotel. They were questioned by detectives as to their alleged connection with the holdup Monday night of C. W. Lane, well known business man; the holdup of Young's restaurant, at 321 Peachtree street, last Saturday night, and the robbery of the Peachtree market on the preceding Saturday night.

Mr. Lane visited detective headquarters Wednesday afternoon and identified the three men as being the person who held him up in his automobile driveway about 5 o'clock Monday morning. He took from him a $1,000 diamond ring and a pocket watch containing $60 in cash.

The robbery of the two Peachtree street business establishments were unusually bold. At the Peachtree market, the three men entered the place, forced the clerk, a proprietor, and a clerk, to hold up their hands, and removed $150 from the cash register.

The holdup of Young's cafe occurred about 10:30 o'clock last Saturday night while the place was crowded with after-theater diners. A method identical to the one used in looting the market was used by three men in an automobile to rob the restaurant.

One man remained in the car. Another stood in the door and held the patrons at bay while the third got the money.

King and Burke are said to resemble the descriptions of the men who entered the Young establishment, while Goolsby is thought to be the third man who waited in the machine.

Ernest L. Rhodes, who has been in New York for the past ten days, will return by way of Philadelphia to visit his daughter, Miss Virginia Rhodes, who is attending school there and Lexington, Va., to visit his mother, Mrs. C. L. Rhodes.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Medlock moved to Lake Bennett for the week-end.

Mr. Tim Murphy will leave today for a visit to Miss Bennie Magill, in Athens, and will visit friends in Washington, Ga., before returning to Atlanta.

Mrs. E. Dunson leaves today for a few days' stay at her home in LaGrange, accompanied by her daughter Miss Celeste Dunson and Mrs. Gordon Mitchell. They will be joined for the week-end by Gordon Mitchell, Eugene Mitchell and Harvey Hatcher.

Miss Celeste Dunson will have as her guest the first week in May Miss Claude Dunson, of LaGrange. Miss Lillian Tidwell and Frank Tidwell will give a dance at their country place in their honor and other affairs are planned.

Mrs. E. W. McCricken leaves today to visit relatives in Dallas for a tour of the northwest.

Miss Essie Roberts will spend the week-end with Mrs. Paul Potter.

Clara Kimball Young, the celebrated motion picture star, will arrive in the city Thursday of next week and will be at the Georgian Terrace.

OLD RIVALS IN BATTLE IN BIG GAME FRIDAY P.M.

directly from their home town, where a good start against Atlanta and Chattanooga was made. The Atlanta team is under the same management as it was last year, but the Mobile outfit is new. The coach of Herman Bronkie, a newcomer to Southern League circles, who appears to have worked previously with the material Manager Bob Coleman left him.

Many Stunts Arranged.

Stunts a-plenty have been arranged for the spectators and the "big" game will be a signal of the umpire is missing. Accord- ing to present plans, Mayor Key will be in the grandstand for the hula queue, will hit it at it and Governor Hugh M. Dorsey will attend the game. The Mayor Key probably won't get the agate anywhere near the platter; Dorsey, however, will be in the game.

Tech High and Boys' High are preparing for their greatest battle Friday which will bring to a close the first half of the 1921 Atlanta football season. The season. The game is scheduled to be played at Piedmont park at 3:30 o'clock.

Players of both teams are confident of victory, while the coaches are not enough to know better, are Mayor Dorsey certainly won't be the only one to be disappointed. The empire of the battle of the bulls is the one that is important to the local season and will affect directly the standing of the city in the state.

Should Boys' High win the game then the Davitts will finish the winter with a record of 10-1, a defeat and one full game ahead of the rest of the field. Three teams will be in the same position as the Tech High, University High and G. M. A. But on the other hand should the Davitts lose the game, it would the Davitts will be in a tie with the Tech High, University High, G. M. A. and University school will be in a deadlock over second place. The Davitts will be the first of the first of its kind to develop here in recent seasons.

Ample car service has defeated Boys' High in every athletic contest which they have met in this scholastic season. The Davitts will be able to make their trips comfortably.

THE GUMPS—YOU CAN'T GO BROKE TAKING SOMETHING FOR NOTHING

MINERS TO HOLD OUT TILL STARVED

London, April 20.—So firm are the majority of the striking coal miners in their determination to hold out "until starved out" for their initial demands that the executive meeting of the leaders of the British miners' federation Thursday is expected to reaffirm officially the same demands that were made when the men quit work.

Speaking for the federation, Herbert Smith, president and labor member of parliament, is out with a statement on the eve of the executive meeting that "the miners will submit only when they are absolutely starved out," which, he added, "would be a solution found in the formation of a tonnage pool, with a specified assessment on every ton of coal mined."

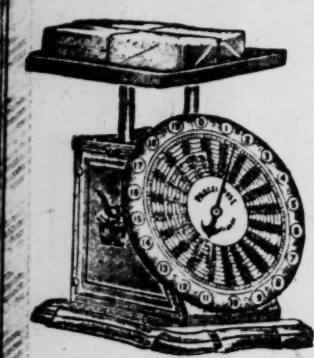

Details for the establishment of a national wage board and a national wage pool have been reaffirmed by the large majorities of the district committees of miners throughout the country. It is claimed by the Daily Herald, the organ of labor, that "the miners' claims that these meetings, which were held preparatory to the conference of the miners' federation of Great Britain here on Friday, stood 14 to 1 in favor of the demands of the union."

A statement was issued by the miners' federation last night, declaring that Prime Minister Lloyd George's address in the house of commons on Monday did not carry the possibility of a settlement any further than it stood last week. Lloyd George will not return from Hythe until Monday to resume his efforts to effect a settlement, but meantime the industrial distress becomes more acute owing to the shortage of coal. The government's supply Wednesday was less than 1,000 tons, an insignificant store, sure to be exhausted before Monday.

CONGRESS ASKED TO CONTINUE AID IN ROADBUILDING

Greensboro, N. C., April 20.—Congress was asked in resolutions unanimously adopted by the United States Good Roads Association, in its ninth annual convention here today, to continue federal aid for state highway construction and to make available for a "national road fund" payments received from the allied nations on loans made to them by this government.

Congress is asked in the resolutions to appropriate $100,000,000 annually to carry out a five-year road building program because "there is no public policy that will bless and benefit more people than that the construction of public roads in the various states of the union."

The afternoon session was given over to the various highway engineering, representing many states. These engineers told of the progress being made in their states. They rendered optimistic reports in a committee report. The recommendations will probably be voted upon at the last meeting Saturday.

The association this afternoon appealed to President Harding by congress for a protective tariff which, it declared, was imperatively necessary to save the south from "the throes of an economic disaster of unparalleled intensity." A memorial presented to the house ways and means committee said agriculture "lies prostrate," the manufacturing industry is "threatened with paralysis" and the mineral industry is "entirely unproductive." The immediate enactment of such tariff schedules as will equalize the cost of production in this country with that of foreign countries," was asked.

A copy of the memorial later was presented to President Harding by a committee who asked the support of the administration in their efforts. The president also was asked to attend the next meeting of the association, which will be held in Columbia, S. C., within the next two or three months. The invitation was taken under advisement by the president.

Announcement also was made at headquarters here of the association's intention of organizing the entire industrial and agricultural south in a movement for the establishment of a "national protective tariff." Work is to be begun at once on the South Carolina plan.

GENERAL LIGGETT AIDS EX-SOLDIERS IN CLUB CLEANING

San Francisco, April 20.—A white-haired elderly man dressed in blue overalls, yesterday entered a building here which is being converted into a club house for the American Legion, looked around curiously and then, without a word, he turned and walked away.

"I heard you were trying to fix up this place," he said, "Can I help?" "Sure, pitch in," was the answer. "The old man," he said, "is a former soldier, sailors and marines looked wonderingly at the man in overalls. Then they recognized Major General Hunter Liggett, former field commander of the first American army overseas and until his retirement several weeks ago commander of the ninth army corps area."

The Ballard Make

Years of experience, careful study of the eye, the manufacturing of glasses for the correction of eye troubles, enables us with our force of experts to give optical service that is not always found elsewhere. We will do all an honest optician can do for you. There are many cases that need the services of an oculist before they ever get comfort from their eyes—we are familiar with such cases and advise what is best for you. It is much easier for you to keep out of trouble than it is to get out after you are in. We have many thousand patients who will gladly verify the above statement—ask them, they are not hard to find.
